Jottings from . . .

Jo's Notebook

There may be other stories, in other towns today, but no news has the human interest sentiments that pervades our newspaper office today.

I realize that what I am about to say will brand me with two unpardonable faults, age and sentimentality. All the same, I must confess: I am in love with the old modes of newspaper printing, now dropping sadly by the way-side in our frenzied surge towards automation.

Today we are taking the giant step toward the changeover from "hot type," to the "cold type," process of printing and setting both the Fulton News and the Fulton Shopper. The Fulton Shopper has been "cold type" or offset, since it was inaugurated more than four years ago.

Only occasionally has the Fulton News been printed off-set, in emergencies, but today the change-over is complete, or as near as it can be without a headline machine, which will be installed Monday.

In listening to the clack-clack-clack of the Just-Writer Recorder and Reproducer, with our son and daughter operating them with such ease, I cannot help but turn off the new sounds in my mind to enjoy the old echoes of the linotype machine, that will always be a reminder of the delights of my youth as a cub reporter.

The decision to "go-off-set," was a long time a-borning for no visible reason, except that perhaps the long association we have had with such familiar working tools as leads and slugs, column rule, hell-boxes, type-lice, engravings, printer's ink, and such other prosaic names made us feel like Benedict Arnold in setting them aside for something new.

If I had to pin-point just one reason for going to a less arduous method of printing a newspaper, I would say that our urge to work is slowly being retarded by our diminishing energies to keep pace with competition while using the old-fashioned equipment.

It's like I said, I could get maudlin about the whole business — the thought of losing T. C. Taylor's incomparable talent for efficiency, cooperation and loyalty and understanding of our problems simply shakes me into depression. The same goes for Joe Weeks, in a less sensitive position than T. C., but will all the other attributes of a good employee.

One of the most difficult tasks in the world for me is to say "goodbye." I'd walk a mile to avoid it. We're not going to say goodbye to any of the old newspaper equipment in the back shop, we'll just let it stay there forever, until like the editors and publishers, we all break down together.

We're going to keep our job printing shop, even expand it.

Mrs. Jo Westpheling
FULTON COUNTY NEWS
Fulton, Kentucky 42041

Dear Mrs. Westpheling:

I have long admired and respected you as a less-than-perfect individual who is well aware of it yourself - who isn't trying to fool anyone, your neighbor, yourself, or your God - but who fights for what you believe in and against what you don't believe in - I still do.

I feel that we, in this area, deserve your timely attack on the character assassin and hypocrite. The Bible attacks them also and our pastors tell us about it at our church services, but we don't seem to heed His word.

If only we could realize that we aren't really fooling our neighbor - if we're fooling ourselves, we'd better stop and take a good look and see what's really there - and we're certainly not fooling our God.

If anything has to be discussed, the truth would be fair but not the many, many, wild, untrue tales that the pious seem to have stashed away in a reservoir, ready to open and let flow with very little effort. Thank goodness, most individuals who are set upon by these character assassins and hypocrites, take the outstretched hand of the Great Physician and with His help, rise above the attackers, and live a beautiful, happy, worthwhile and peaceful life. It's a shame the attackers can't be at peace.

If only we would use our tongues to spread good news and the message of our Heavenly Father instead of for slander to harm our fellowman.

Sincerely,
Bobbie Foster
(Mrs.) Mose Foster

County, City Schools Pay Maximum Salaries

The highest salary a Kentucky teacher at the maximum training and experience level could expect to earn in a local school system during the 1968-69 school year ranged from $6,900 to $10,384.

A new Kentucky Education Association (KEA) research division bulletin entitled "Salary Schedules of Kentucky Public School Teachers, 1968-69" shows the $6,900 top maximum was scheduled for Rank I teachers in 46 of the state's 195 school districts while the $10,384 top maximum was scheduled in only two districts—Louisville and Jefferson County.

Rank I teachers are those with a master's degree plus 30 approved college-credit hours beyond the master's. The $6,900 top could be reached after 10 years experience in the 46 systems. In both Louisville and Jefferson County, however, it took 15 years of experience to reach the Rank I top maximum.

The 46 systems paying the $6,900 top maximum were the county systems of Adair, Bracken, Breathitt, Calloway, Carter, Cumberland, Elliott, Fleming, Fulton, Graves, Grayson, Green, Hart, Jackson, Johnson, Knox, Laurel, Letcher, Madison, Magoffin, Marshall, Mercer, Metcalfe, Morgan, Nicholas, Owsley, Pulaski, Robertson, Rockcastle, Russell, Todd, Trigg, Washington, and Whitley and the independent systems of Benton, Berea, Corbin, Dawson Springs, Fulton, Irvine, Jackson, Monticello, Pineville, Richmond, Science Hill, and Williamsburg.

The majority of Kentucky's public-school classroom teachers are in Rank III, which means they have a bachelor's degree. For Rank III teachers at the maximum level of experience, the KEA research bulletin points out, the highest scheduled salary ranged from $6,100 in 48 school systems to $9,676 in two systems—Louisville and Jefferson County. In the latter two systems it took 15 years of experience to reach the Rank III maximum compared with 10 years in the systems paying the $6,100 top maximum.

The 48 systems paying the $6,100 top maximum for Rank III teachers were the county systems of Adair, Breathitt, Calloway, Carter, Cumberland, Elliott, Fulton, Graves, Grayson, Green, Hart, Jackson, Johnson, Knox, Laurel, Lawrence, Letcher, Magoffin, Marshall, Menifee, Mercer, Metcalfe, Morgan, Nicholas, Owsley, Pulaski, Robertson, Rockcastle, Rowan, Russell, Todd, Trigg, Washington, Whitley, and Wolfe and the independent systems of Augusta, Benton, Berea, Corbin, Dawson Springs, East Bernstadt, Fulton, Jackson, Monticello, Pineville, Richmond, Science Hill, and Williamsburg.

Top maximum salaries scheduled for Rank II teachers (those with a master's degree) ranged from $6,500 in 50 systems, where the maximum could be reached in 10 years, to $10,148 in two systems—Louisville and Jefferson County, where it took 15 years to reach the maximum.

The 50 systems paying the $6,500 top maximum for Rank II teachers were the county systems of Adair, Ballard, Breathitt, Calloway, Carter, Cumberland, Elliott, Fleming, Fulton, Graves,

Development District Members Will Meet

The Purchase Area Development District members will meet Thursday at 7 p. m. in Mayfield at the West Kentucky RECC to complete organizational plans.

Officers and the executive committee are to be elected. Woodrow Coots, University of Kentucky area extension specialist in resource development working in an advisory capacity to the district, said Washington officials of the Economic Development Administration are expected to announce the finding for a professional staff at the Thursday meeting. Six of the eight Purchase counties had provided supporting resolutions as of last Friday with Fulton County expected to take official action on June 24.

Eligible counties are filling citizen board member categories with joint appointments being made by the respective county judges and mayors. The completed board will consist of 31 members with the citizen members broadly representative of the areas, Coots said.

A development district is designed to provide a channel through which a multi-county group can cooperate and coordinate activities in overall development programs. It is anticipated that professional assistance will enhance the securing of federal aids on various projects. Ballard County is not eligible to participate pending action by the fiscal court.

Judge Dick Castleman, Graves County, has served as temporary chairman and Judge Hall McCusick, Calloway County, as temporary secretary of the district.

Willow Plunge To Open For Stockholders Only

The Willow Plunge Swimming Pool, operated by a private corporation of 356 stockholders, will re-open this year, according to action taken Tuesday night at the meeting of the organization's membership.

Plagued by financial problems, the group apparently may solve the difficulties by selling annual memberships at $50 per family. The stockholders voted to make memberships available only to individuals or families owning stock in the corporation.

Increasing its number of stockholders by 13 at a meeting in May, Willow Plunge has now declared that no other stock will be sold. The stock sold for $25 per share, the majority of it being subscribed when the pool was privately incorporated nearly ten years ago.

The decision to sell memberships to stockholders only is a departure from a practice of years past. A membership was sold for $2.00 per year, per individual using the pool, plus the cost of admission. A requirement to be a stockholder in order to purchase a membership was instituted this year.

According to Frank Welch, a past president of the Willow Plunge Corporation, "75 percent of the young people who used the pool in past years will not be able to pay the $50 membership fee. It was hard enough for a lot of them to find $2.00," he said.

The new membership policy put into motion by the Willow

Plunge Corporation is similar to that of many private country clubs in the area, and the Nation, who seek to restrict membership in the organization.

Ed Neely, president of the Willow Plunge, Inc., said that the pool will open on July 1. It is roughly estimated that annual expenses for operation of the pool totals approximately $4000.00.

Police Nab Youth In Girl's Assault

The suspect lived with his mother, Sadie Mae Johnson, in Trenton.

Miss Washam, who was planning to attend Murray State University this summer, was in a Mayfield parking lot when the incident occurred. She told police she was making a phone call, and when she returned to her car a Negro youth forced her at knife-point to drive to a deserted spot, where she said she was beaten, raped and stabbed.

Two passersby found her later that night and brought her to a hospital in Mayfield.

Miss Washam's condition was reported somewhat improved today.

She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Washam.

Busy All Year, CPYF Members "Vacation" Is Work For Fellowman

By Ouida Jewell

A group of local teenagers will leave here Saturday morning for Idabel, Okla., where they will work on an Indian Reservation for one week.

The group, members of the CPYF of the Fulton Cumberland Presbyterian Church, will make the trip by bus and will be accompanied by their sponsors, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ray. Ned Waldrop will drive the bus, which is being loaned the group by the Rev. James Best, pastor of the First Baptist Church here. Mr. and Mrs. Otis Melton will join the group on the reservation Monday and going later in the week will be Mrs. Ned Waldrop and daughter, Lisa, and Mrs. Richard Bodker.

The young people making the trip will be Jan Clement, Connie Melton, Becky Smith, Kay King, Cindy Roberts, Patty Jolley, Winkle Ray, Robbie Rudolph, Dana Wilson, Tommy Bodker, Richard Bodker, Jimmie Bodker, Stevie Waldrop, Jimmie Greer, Tommy Wright, Michael Miller and Dwain Johnson. Four members of the group will be unable to attend.

The Cumberland Presbyterian Church here supports a mission among the Choctaw Indians in Oklahoma and a youth camp has been constructed. Each year a few more facilities are added to enable this camp to better meet the needs of the youth served by the mission.

Next week the Fulton boys and girls will help in clearing more land and painting and repairing at the campsite. Last week another group of young people conducted a Bible School at the campsite and 137 Indians attended, Mrs. Ray, one of the sponsors, said.

No support will come from the church treasury for the trip, instead, the young people raised the money themselves from various activities, including bake sales, rummage sales, car wash and the sale of a civic directory.

"The parents have helped in so many ways. They have been so encouraging and the people of the town, the different organizations, and especially the South Fulton Methodist Youth, have been so helpful in our efforts to raise the money needed for the trip," Mrs. Ray stated.

The group will leave from the Cumberland Presbyterian Church Saturday morning at 6 o'clock. They will spend Saturday night in Little Rock, Ark., and will attend church there Sunday morning at a church pastored by the Rev. James Johnson, formerly of Fulton. At noon the Fulton group will be guests of the church at a picnic lunch. They will arrive in Oklahoma Sunday night. The group will return to Fulton on Saturday night, June 28.

The Fulton CPYF group averages from 12 to 15 in attendance each Sunday night, and this year each member's birthday is being observed. In January they had a New Year's party; February, a hamburger supper; in March, there was a popcorn party with games; April, a wiener roast; May, a homemade ice cream supper; and this month they will have a swimming party.

During this past year they have attended a Convocation in Jackson, Tenn., for the West Tennessee Synod, a retreat at Bethel College, which was a weekend affair for the Obion Presbytery and in July of 1968 they attended the National Association of Cumberland Presbyterian Youth Fellowship in Arkansas.

The local group is very fortunate to have a member who is president of the Presbyterian Youth Fellowship which meets each fifth Sunday for worship and fellowship. In the late summer of last year, they spent the weekend at Montgomery Bell Park and then joined the church for Sunday services at the chapel located at the birthplace of the church.

A continuing project of the Fulton CPYF is the making of signs to be placed on various highways and streets giving directions to the church.

Because of his belief in young people and his desire to help, a local funeral director gave a large picture of Christ in their honor which was placed in the foyer of the church.

Officers of the group are: Richard Bodker, president; Tommy Greer, vice-president; and Cindy Roberts, secretary-treasurer.

Morning Wedding In Bride's Home Unites Miss Whitnel, Mr. Crimm

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Winfred Whitnel of Fulton, Kentucky announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Margaret Linda Whitnel, to Mr. Jesse Carlton Crimm of Greensboro, North Carolina, on Friday, the thirteenth of June.

The double ring ceremony was performed at eleven o'clock in the morning by the Reverend George K. Comes, Jr., minister of the First United Methodist Church of Fulton, in the home of the bride's parents, 405 Park Avenue, in the presence of the immediate families.

Meet The President

This corner, "Meet the President," is the first in a series the News plans to publish to acquaint our readers with the individuals who are the leaders in our far-flung, widespread organizational network in the twin cities.

The first subject of this series is Mrs. James Robey, a tall, good-looking, soft-spoken lady who says her hobby is her family, and when time permits some work outdoors in her yard.

Mrs. Robey Lives For Family, Loves Outdoors, Is PTA President

As the new president of the South Fulton Parent-Teacher Association, Mrs. Robey, who has the euphonious sounding first name of Zearle, (pronounced Sara Lee) was born and reared in this community and comes by her propensity for doing things and making people happy, quite naturally. She is the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bethel, "ole Hammerin' Hank at Wade Furniture Company," who surely has never met a stranger.

Married to James Robey, a veteran employee of the A & P Food Store (23 years) Zearle was one of the ladies with "the voice with a smile," at the local Southern Bell Telephone office. She later became service assistant and was in this position when the local system went to "dial" in 1965.

Working with young people comes as easy as counting one and two for Mrs. Robey, and being the president of the South Fulton PTA is an honor that was destined to come to her. She has served on the executive board for three years and has been a hard-working member for all the time that her sons David, 17 and Mark, 12 1/2 have been old enough to want their mother to answer "present" when the home-room rolls were called.

Besides being actively engaged in all school activities, Mrs. Robey has worked with the Cub Scouts, and of course she served as a den mother. Young Mark is still an active scout, so you know that means a lot of getting around for the Robeys, a typical, good American family. Mr. Robey is also an only child. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Robey.

"People said when we married that we didn't have a chance to stay married, since neither of us had brothers or sisters. We've been at it 19 years, and I imagine we've gotten adjusted, don't you?" she asked this reporter. We "low as how they have, since we've known them both for many years and number them among our favorite people.

Mrs. Robey is today announcing the officers, which were installed at the final meeting of the school year, and the committee chairman for the 1969-70 year. Mrs. Harvey Bondurant, retiring president, installed the officers.

Officers are: First vice president, Mrs. William Ward; second vice president, Mrs. Clyde Stunson; third vice president, Mrs. Richard Rose; secretary, Mrs. Harvey Bondurant Jr.; treasurer, Mrs. Larry Kelly; reporter, Mrs. Paul Blaylock; program, Mrs. Danny Thorpe; and Mrs. Phillip Andrews; hospitality, Mrs. Hattie Vanderford; membership, Mrs. Russell Ross, chairman, Mrs. Bill Gray; parliamentarian, Mrs. Mac Burrow; calling committee, Mrs. Billy McCollum.

Mrs. Robey has named the committee heads as follows:

Cultural art, Mrs. Billy Miller; budget and finance, Kenneth Crews, Virgil Yates, Kenneth Winston, Harold Henderson; character, spiritual education, the Rev. Mr. Smalley, assisted by W. W. Jetton; cook book, Mrs. Ned Waldrop, Mrs. R. T. Bodker, Mrs. Clyde Stunson, Mrs. Mac Burrow and Patricia Travis;

Legislative, C. D. Jones, Ed Neeley, Clyde Stunson, Cecil Maddox, David Phelps, Harry Bushart, Elmer Mansfield, Milton Counce and Ralph Puckett; Founder's Day, Elsie Provoy, chairman, Mrs. Bob Harris; health, Mrs. Tom Templeton, Mrs. Kenneth Vaughn; scrapbook and history, Mrs. J. C. Witherspoon, Mrs. Thomas Dedmon, Mrs. William Ward; PTA magazine, Mrs. Ralph Jackson, Mrs. John Dunn; citizenship, Mrs. Chester Gregory and Mrs. Gerald Wayne Powell;

Safety, Mrs. Philip Wiley, Mrs. Larry Kelly, Mrs. W. T. Atkins; cooperating with college, Virgil Yates, Wyatt Cunningham; juvenile protection, R. T. Bodker, Cleo McClanahan; mental health, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hayden, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Atkins.

The float committee will be announced at a later date.

Mrs. James Robey, new president of the South Fulton P-T-A, is shown here in her garden, which is a secondary hobby to making her family happy.

Miss Ann Herron Library Director

Miss Ann Herron, reference librarian at Murray State University since 1952, will become associate director of the library on July 1, according to President Harry M. Sparks.

She will also be acting librarian this summer while Charles F. Hinds is off campus working on his doctoral degree.

Miss Herron was one of three Murray State staff members presented 25-year service plaques at the annual alumni banquet last month.

County Library's Reading Program Is In Session

There will be a summer reading program sponsored by the Fulton County Public Library District again this year. The theme of the program this year is THE BOOKWORM READING PROGRAM.

The reading program started at Cayce on June 16 at 2:30 in the afternoon and will run every Wednesday thereafter for six weeks.

The Efforts Of The Banana Festival Towards Hemispheric Friendship Is Worth The Price

The Banana Festival,—the unique International salute staged annually by Fulton and South Fulton to the Latin American banana producing countries,—has had its share of publicity, glory and frustrations in its six years of determined effort.

It has played host to ambassadors, diplomats, educators, newspapermen and a legion of Latin adults invited to attempt to develop closer and more friendly feelings between the Americas. Sometimes the attempts to develop better "adult-to-adult" understanding meet with frustrations hard to cope with: murder of U. S. diplomats in Guatemala, stoning of other diplomats in Venezuela, refusal of Ecuador to participate in a U. S. - sponsored alliance, just to name a few.

But each year, with the adults, come a bunch of Latin students, and the success of this "Amigo" program is now emerging as possibly the outstanding contribution to hemispheric understanding and good will that the Festival is producing.

If this result was too far-off when the Amigo program began, it has nevertheless now begun to bear fruit. If this result was unlooked-for at the time the program was conceived, it nevertheless now emerges as something tangible, worthwhile and enduring.

From a number of sources here, we learn of cases where firm family friendships, developed during the visit of a Latin youngster here for the Festival, are continuing happily. From some of our young men and women themselves, who played host to Amigos during bygone Festivals, we continue to be informed that this "people-to-people" program of getting U. S. students acquainted with their Latin counterparts has produced enduring respect and friendships across the borders. Not only for the students, mind you, but also for the whole idea of the program.

Because we have already carried so many accounts in the paper about follow-up visits of our students and, sometimes their families, to Latin-American homes of their "Amigos", plus return visits of former Amigos here, plus other interesting and heart-warming incidents that were generated because a Latin student came to the Festival we don't need to repeat those cases.

But last weekend, talking to a young Fultonian now away at college, we found just another instance where the Amigo program performed a worthwhile, if unlooked-for, result. This young man is now enroute to Europe on a coveted summer program involving a few carefully-selected U. S. students. He will spend the entire summer there, as the only Kentucky college student selected for the program.

What is the program?—Basically a foundation-sponsored "people-to-people" program, seeking to better US-Continental relations and understanding. Where did he first generate interest in such programs? Why, right here in his hometown of Fulton, from our Amigo program!

Only recently former Vice-President Hubert Humphrey was quoted as saying: "The people of Latin-America want our help if it is given with a hand of friendship and cooperation."

This is precisely what our international relations program of the Banana Festival is trying so desperately to accomplish. It is not an easy goal to achieve, but it is a dynamic challenge to an American commitment around the world to bring peace in our time.

Where else can we look for better tomorrows than to our young people who have a vital stake in putting into motion those programs than can assure hemispheric peace?

This is not to discount the worthwhile and enduring aspects of adult people-to-people programs nor to lessen their emphasis in future Festivals one bit. But we are discovering, in the respect and understanding that our "Amigo" program has developed, another prime contribution that the Festival has made and continues to make, and we submit that this Amigo program may well emerge as the soundest contribution of the whole Festival.

Financial "Problems" Of Postal Service Defy All Logic Of Economics, Good Sense

There is an old rule-of-thumb in business circles that has held true for generations: "the greater the volume, the less-cost-per-unit" of an item. In manufacturing, distribution and sales of a product, we have living testimony on all sides of us that prices are lower and quality is better than ever before in history. When, for instance, has anyone ever been able to make a transcontinental phone call for $1.7?

Why, in the face of astronomical volume and its accompanying revenues, the U. S. postal service cannot maintain its rate charges... or even consider lowering them, we do not understand. The situation seems to go against all axioms of business that we know of.

We have no quarrel with the 740,000 mailmen who are asking for an honest wage for an honest day's work; they're entitled to it same as the employees of any other industry, and they have always been paid well.

But we submit that SOMETHING must be wrong with a system that streamlines itself for maximum efficiency, handles record volume, does record business and still increases its rates nearly every year. What we would like to know is this:

If a first-class letter is going to cost all of us 7c sometime after July 1st, just HOW MUCH government agency mail is still being handled for free? How many million or billion pieces a week does somebody have to sort, transport and deliver while the public pays the cost in the form of increasing rates?

As a newspaper, we receive, every week, a stack of "franked" letters and envelopes from every conceivable department of the U. S. government. The parcels state that "postage and fees have been paid by XXX agency" and this we think is a big joke, only the laugh is really on us, and the Post Office Department. We are having to pay the postage and the P. O. D. is having to handle this stuff.

We would like to see every single agency of the Federal government be required to pay the going rate for postal service same as civilian users, and let their respective "budgets" pay the actual cost. It doesn't matter to us if the government is taking money out of one pocket and putting it into another... it would be taking it out of one fat-budgeted department and putting it into the struggling post office department so it can have an honest accounting of itself.

We do not follow the POD's feeling that first class mail must be expedited via air, either. If it takes seven days for a first-class letter to reach California from Fulton, so what? (As long as the cost is 5c, or even 6c). If we want to expedite the message, we could send it by air at, say, 20c per ounce, or if we want to expedite it more than that we could make a phone call for $1 and do it instantly at night.

We think it is time that we are holding prices steady, and giving the whole system an examination to see WHY NOT. Surely a moderate cost-of-living increase for postal workers can't be blamed for all of the problems.

Address all mail (subscriptions, change of address, forms 3879) to Post Office Box 307 Fulton, Kentucky, 42041.

Subscription Rates: $2.00 per year in Fulton, Hickman, Graves Counties, Ky., and Obion and Weakley Counties, Tenn. Elsewhere throughout the United States $4.00 per year.

Kentucky Subscribers must add 5% Sales Tax.

POET'S CORNER

NEED OF LOVING

Folk need a lot of loving in the morning;
The day is all before, with cares beset -
The cares we know, and they that give no warning;
For love is God's own antidote for fret.

Folk need a heap of loving at the noontime -
In the battle lull, the moment snatched from strife -
Halfway between the waking and the croontime,
While bickering and worriment are rife.

Folk hunger so for loving at the nighttime,
When wearily they take them home to rest -
At slumber song and turning-out-the-light time -
Of all the times for loving, that's the best.

Folk want a lot of loving every minute -
The sympathy of others and their smile!
Till life's end, from the moment they begin it,
Folks need a lot of loving all the while.

THE GOLDEN SICKLE, by Davis Grubb. A ravening wind whistles round the attic of a lonely inn in a post-revolutionary Virginia where Dan Cresap lies half asleep. Suddenly, from the shadowy stairwell, emerges a haggard, terrified man. A man sent by dying Jim Cresap to his teenage son with a strange legacy: a furry leather box sealed with a clot of blood-red wax. Within it lie a signet ring, a ball of string, and a scrawled verse—clues to a hidden treasure.

NO TRAINS ON SUNDAY, by Willie Kohlmann. In 1928, Willie Kohlmann was eleven and hardly more in love with the railroad than would be normal in a boy of his years, which is to say he was just plain crazy about trains. On Sundays, no trains ever ran through Bullawelllock but during the week, Willie used to watch them steam by his house and he would wave to the engineers, the firemen and the conductors. There is something of Penrod in Willie Kohlmann and something of Tom Sawyer, too, and in this nostalgic rear view of childhood, every man who grew up in the country or a small town will surely find some delightful reflection of his younger self.

THE POODLE BOOK, by Jeff Griffen. Here is just about everything anyone who owns — or is owned by — a poodle needs to know. Jeff Griffen loves poodles and, by experience, has learned a great deal about them. He begins this carefully thought-out manual of poodle wisdom with the very first step in your relationship with a poodle, buying a puppy.

QUEEN CHRISTINA, by Georgina Masson. Of all the women of history, none has been more enigmatic and paradoxical — not even England's great sphinx, Elizabeth — than Christina of Sweden. She was a woman who would have preferred to be a man and went to scandalous lengths to behave like one. Her dress, her language, her deportment were all as masculine as she could make them, and she carried this perverse image into the choosing of a royal favorite.

HOUSE PLANTS, by George Elbert. The specific needs of plants are fully described in non-technical, easily understood terms—watering, potting, as well as temperature and ventilation requirements. The newest techniques such as growing under artificial lights, the employment of soil substitutes, and the use of systemic insecticides are set forth.

FAROUK OF EGYPT, by Barrie McBride. This is the life story of one of the most notorious figures of the century. This is the story of that good-hearted and sad man with palaces but no home, and his struggle against overwhelming odds. A sycophantic court, two unsuccessful marriages and numerous affairs, humiliation at the hands of a domineering British Ambassador, conflict with an aging Prime Minister whose young and beautiful ful wife led Cairo to corruption, these he had to contend with.

A FRINGE OF BLUE, by Joice Nakivell Loch. On the frontier between Mount Athos and the Greek mainland stands a Byzantine tower called Prosforion. Its tenant, Mrs. Loch, is well-known, almost legendary, to travellers to the holy mountain. She was born in Australia, and was brought up in all the rigors and eccentricities of outback family life. In 1918, the then Miss Nankivell went to England where she married an English writer, Sydney Loch. After World War II, the Lochs moved to Salonika to help with the resettlement of the Greeks from Asia Minor. While there they discovered and rented the Byzantine tower.

CAROLINE, THE UNHAPPY QUEEN, by Edward Russell. On August 7th, 1821, Caroline Amelia Elizabeth of Brunswick-Wolfenbutel, queen-consort of King George IV of Great Britain, died of a broken heart. Twenty-six years earlier she had been married to her first cousin the Prince of Wales, the First Gentleman of Europe. Her husband, who had already been secretly married to another woman, was dead drunk on his wedding night, which she spent, according to his wife, "sleeping under the grate where he fell and where I left him."

MESSAGE FROM HONG KONG, by Mignon G. Eberhart. What did the cryptic message from Hong Kong mean? To Marcia Lowry's father-in-law, who has never given up hope, it indicates that his ne'er-do-well son Dino is still alive three years after he has inexplicably vanished. But Mr. Lowry is an invalid, and since Marcia wishes to marry Richard Blake and begin a new life, it is up to her to fly to the Far East and try to track down the wayward husband she no longer wants.

WASHINGTON

Dear Mrs. Westpheling:
I want you to know the great importance that I attribute to your work. The Partners of the Alliance exemplify the best of the Hemisphere's joint efforts. Any working Alliance for Progress which has set challenging goals such as ours must be a partnership of people as well as nations. You have recognized this, and you are meaningfully advancing our common objectives.

Productive international cooperation must be between partners — partners who listen to each other, who share a cause, and pursue it with equal vigor. Your continuing success in furthering such cooperation is rewarding for all of us.

The creative potential of our societies can be fully realized only if individual citizens exercise initiative and are willing to reinforce the work of their governments. It is imperative that we realize this full potential if we are to deal effectively with our immense problems and achieve the kind of progress we seek.

As civic-minded individuals and groups, the Partners of the Alliance are in the vanguard of voluntarism in the Americas. You are using your talents and your time constructively for our benefit, and for that of all our Sister Republics.

I send you my warmest best wishes for sustained achievement.

John Burris, Veteran Employee To Head FHA Activities In State

A U. S. Department of Agriculture honor award recipient and veteran employee has been named to head Farmers Home Administration activities in Kentucky, according to an announcement by Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin.

The appointment of John H. Burris, 59, of Bardonia (Nelson County) Kentucky, as state director of the Department of Agriculture agency in Kentucky became effective May 26.

He fills a spot left vacant by the recent death of Samuel T. Harrison.

As Kentucky director of the Farmers Home Administration, Mr. Burris will administer rural credit programs for family farm operation, rural housing and community facilities which last year totaled over $38 million. The agency has state headquarters in Lexington and 51 full-time county offices.

The outstanding quality of Mr. Burris' work was recognized in 1959 when he received the Superior Service Award, the Department's second highest award. Mr. Burris started his federal government career in 1939 with Farmers Home Administration as assistant county supervisor at the Monticello Office.

He was promoted to county supervisor in 1940 and put in charge of the Springfield office serving Washington County. He entered the army in 1942, and returned three years later to head the FHA county office in Bardonia.

In 1965 Mr. Burris was promoted to the State office at Lexington. There he helped coordinate and supervise state-wide lending programs to alleviate rural poverty, strengthen family farms and re-establish farming operations after natural disaster.

Mr. Burris was made chief of the operating loan division in 1967, a position he has held until his appointment as state director.

He attended Western Kentucky University in Bowling Green, majored in economics and sociology, with a minor in agriculture, and graduated with a bachelor's degree in 1938.

Address Change Important For Social Security

Residents of the Fulton County area who are receiving monthly social security checks are reminded by Charles M. Whitaker, Social Security Manager in Paducah, to report directly to the Social Security Office any change of address or other events affecting continued receipt of their checks. Reports may be made by mail (you may use the back of your check envelope for this), phone, or in person. Appropriate report forms are available at the Social Security Office.

Whitaker said this reporting method enables the district office to take advantage of the increased capacity of its high speed communications circuits to transmit information to record centers. Until recently, social security beneficiaries were encouraged to notify the Social Security Administration about the occurrence of these events by mailing pre-addressed postcard forms to a record center.

Events that affect receipt of monthly social security checks, in addition to address changes, are starting or stopping work (employment), marriage or remarriage in some instances, divorce, and death.

First Social Security Checks Mailed Faster

Recently expanded use of data processing changes will now reduce the time required for many social security applicants to get their first checks, according to Charles M. Whitaker, Social Security District Manager in Paducah.

A new applicant could get his first check about one month earlier when the new procedures can be used.

Under the changes, most of the time consuming manual work on claims has been eliminated. This is accomplished by direct work from the local social security offices to the data processing machines which do the benefit computations and prepare the awards for payments to start.

"We are very pleased with the new procedures," Whitaker said. "However, it can be used effectively only if the applicant provides the local office with complete and accurate information and all evidence needed at the time he applies."

"Effective use will require a willingness on the part of the applicant to get the information and proofs he needs before the time he plans to apply," he continued. "This is a form of self help that will be very much to the applicant's advantage and we are eager to give the improved service."

As yet, Whitaker stated, not all types of claims can be handled under the new procedure. However, whether or not the new procedure is used, any payment can be made faster if those planning to apply will first call or write the social security office for advice as to what information and evidence will be needed.

The Social Security Office, 112 South Tenth Street, Paducah, is open weekdays, 8:45 A. M. to 5:00 P. M., and until 7:00 P. M. on Thursdays. Telephone--443-7321.

OBION COUNTY

Joe Martin, County Agent
Union City, Tenn.

The largest farm show ever held in West Tennessee will be held Wednesday and Thursday (June 25 and 26th) at the Agriculture Experiment Station in Jackson. The Farm Progress Show is unlike any event ever before held in West Tennessee. The program at the farm show is so large and varied that you could spend all one day observing the Livestock Exhibits and Program, OR the Dairy Exhibits and Program, OR the Field Crops and Forage Exhibits and Program, OR the Agriculture Engineering exhibits and Program, OR the Agriculture Biology Program, and several other programs and exhibits too numerous to mention.

The Agriculture Progress Show is so big — you can't afford to miss going. Call your neighbors and get up a car load.

The women should also attend this show because there will be a complete program on Food Technology, (Dietetic Cooking, freeze drying), Flowers, Shrubs, Trees for the Home Lawn and Ornamental Plants.

Mr. Cotton Farmer! Obion County farmers are now eligible for cotton classification and market news services for the 1969 season, according to M. P. Talbot, Jr., in Charge, Memphis Cotton Classing Office.

The free classification and market news services are provided for farmers under the Smith-Doxey Act of 1937. Mike reading service is also free. Farmers in Obion County had 4,328 sample classes under this program last year. The average yield per acre of cotton in Obion County was only 408 pounds of lint per acre past year. This is just a few pounds less than the Tennessee average.

Agricultural Agent, Illinois Central Railroad

Agricultural limestone and fertilizer recommendations based on a reliable soil test is one of the most important essentials in dairying. Throughout the years many agricultural agencies have promoted this phase of dairying, and it is still often left out of the farming program.

To me fertilizing the coming crop without a soil test is much the same as milking the same herd year after year and never weighing a cow's milk. This leaves the dairyman always guessing, just how much should this cow have at feeding time, or spread about so much agricultural limestone on the back 40. It has never been limed.

Each crop that is to be grown requires a little different treatment. Excessive amounts of agricultural limestone and fertilizer would be wasted under certain crops, while insufficient amounts under other crops would be just as disastrous.

No home builder would attempt building a house without a plan, and knowing just how much material would be required. To fertilize without a soil test could be as costly. Today every farmer has access to soil testing service. I believe, however, it is very important that the test results be discussed with the farmer, so that requirements will be better understood.

It is also important to know something of the history of the fields being tested. Most tests will give you a reaction if rock phosphate has ever been added to the farm. This should be taken into consideration when making phosphate recommendations.

High quality agricultural limestone is a must for all agriculture and especially dairying. Alfalfa, our most valuable roughage, must have a pH of about 7 in order to thrive. Fine, high quality agricultural limestone is the most economical material used on the farm. It will give more dollars returned per dollar invested than other plant foods when needed. Now the big question is, when is limestone needed and how much? The only way is with a soil test. If it is needed buy the best material that is available regardless of cost.

Throughout the south thousands of acres was once planted to cotton, then became depleted and eroded badly. Today many of these acres are being brought back into production through soil testing, grass, legumes, and dairying.

Proper management is the key to farm profits today. Make every dollar do its share of earning. This means we cannot waste dollars on uneeded plant food or low quality agricultural limestone.

Thrifty dairy farmers will be around for many June dairy months to come.

THE SPIRIT OF SONSHIP

"For ye have not received the spirit of bondage again to fear; but ye have received the spirit of adoption (Lit. sonship), whereby we cry, Abba, Father" (Rom. 8:15).

The position of the believer in the family of God is amply illustrated for us in the epistles of Paul. In Gal. 4:1-5 the apostle alludes to the fact that in the life of every Hebrew boy there came a time, appointed by the father, when the lad was formally declared to be a full-grown son, with all the rights and privileges of sonship.

It was now assumed that the young man would no longer need overseers to keep him in check. There would be natural understanding and co-operation between father and son. And so the "adoption" (Gr. son-placing) proceedings took place, indicating that the child, now a full-grown son, was no longer under law, but under grace.

"And because ye are sons," says the apostle, "God hath sent forth the Spirit of His Son into your hearts, crying, Abba, Father. Wherefore thou art no more a servant, but a (full-grown) son" (Gal. 4:6, 7).

This is the position of every believer in Christ. He may, like the Corinthians, still be a babe in his spiritual experience (I Cor. 3:1), but in Christ he occupies the position of a full-grown son, and to grow spiritually it will do him no good to go back under the law; he must rather recognize his standing before God in grace. This is why the apostle says in Rom. 8:15:

"Ye have not received the spirit of bondage again to fear; but ye have received the spirit of sonship, whereby we cry, Abba, Father."

One-Room School Fast Becoming A Memory, State Educator Says

By Wendell P. Butler
Superintendent of Public Instruction

The one or two-room school in becoming rapidly only a memory in Kentucky — a fragment of the past.

This is the only course open to this situation. For too long, the one-room school has served institution standing as an example of Kentucky's impoverished schools. Now, thanks to recent years which have found the Minimum Foundation Program in effect, the number of one and two-room schools has dropped from 7,448 in 1914 to 197 in operation presently.

Now, in place of this domination of incompleteness, Kentucky's school system is experiencing complete growth with consolidation serving as an answer to the abolishment of one-room schools.

In preparing for the future, a recent study was made of one and two-room school situations of the past — a study which we in the Department hope will guide us in meeting tomorrow's school needs.

We feel that we can learn best from mistakes and experiences from the past. Therefore, a study of the history of the "little red school house" — the romantic term for one-room school — should benefit all of us.

"Little red school houses" were located wherever a few students whose parents could or would pay pedagogues for teaching services could be found.

The frame structures were almost always poorly planned and were usually constructed on an unprofitable piece of land located in the center of the area they served.

Understandably, the patrons of a rural community considered the one-room school as a center of community pride as well as a conventionalized institution, never giving much thought to the quality of teaching the little school housed.

Yet, education officials realized, almost immediately, that an ideal school picture could not be had as long as one-room schools over-shadowed the picture.

James H. Fuqua, Superintendent of Public Instruction from 1903 to 1907 wrote the following opinion in offering suggestions for the improvement of Kentucky education:

"One of the worst features of our present school system is the large number of small schools that exist under it." T. J. Coates, supervisor, State Department of Education 1910-11, wrote in that year's biennial report:

"There is a minimum below which there cannot be an efficient school. This minimum is probably a school of two teachers and forty students. The schools of the state should be reorganized as rapidly as possible and consolidation should be employed when practicable."

But, people and some officials at that time were opposed to change — the "little red school house" being too much a source of community pride. Consolidation, therefore, was opposed.

For those citizens who wanted the best for tomorrow's students, the dream of a revamped, up-to-date school system for Kentucky didn't die. And, gradually, the dream became a reality being aided primarily by three factors:

1. The advent of transportation.
2. Population growth.
3. Emphasis on accreditation and evaluation.

While these factors have aided in the rapid decline of a school system which was unproductive, they should also continue to keep us alert in guarding against future unproductivity.

No longer can we be 50 years behind, as in the past. Rather Kentucky's schools must offer, from henceforth, the best trained teachers, great variety of curricula and extra-curricular activities, better adaptation

Lt.-Gov. Ford Is Keynoter For Centennial

Kentucky's Lieutenant Governor Wendell H. Ford will keynote a series of activities June 20-22 commemorating the one hundredth anniversary of the opening of Spring Meadows, Baptist child care institution located in Middletown, Kentucky.

Spring Meadows claims to be the oldest Southern Baptist child care agency, having had a continuous operation since June 21, 1869.

Reverend J. D. Herndon is in his tenth year as superintendent, and is only the seventh person to hold this office since the home was established.

The lieutenant governor, who is also an active Baptist layman, will speak at a dinner on the evening of June 20 at the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center. Homecoming Day will be observed at Spring Meadows on June 21. The program includes a historical pageant to be presented in the afternoon by the staff and children of the home. Dr. Wayne Dehoney, pastor of the Walnut Street Baptist Church, Louisville, will conclude the three-day celebration with a memorial service in his church on June 22. Trustees, staff, and children of Spring Meadows will be honored guests. It was Walnut Street Church which gave birth to the children's home in 1869.

This man has a disability and he's giving it the best years of his life.

It doesn't have to be that way. Physical and mental disabilities can be overcome. Today you can get medical aid. You can learn to take care of yourself. You can be taught to do a job you like. A job that gives you a feeling of belonging.

There's just one catch.

Before we can help the disabled, we have to find them. Last year we managed to find and rehabilitate 200,000 people. Fine. But while we were doing that, 300,000 more became disabled.

And the gap gets wider every year.

So if you're disabled (or concerned about someone who is), help us do something about it. And help us do it soon.

You've got nothing to lose but your disability.

Thanks Bobbye! If only more people would express their utter contempt for gossip, (and many people do abhor it,) pretty soon the culprits would be shamed out of existence.

The letter received above is in rather sharp contrast to one received last week-end wherein a reader politely castigated this newspaper for certain information reported in connection with a court hearing concerning the late Mrs. Ina Foy Pittman.

My only comment to the voluminous correspondence is that this publication does not MAKE the news we only PRINT it.

For the record, I have no intention of either correcting any statements we made, or retracting them, as was suggested, for to do so would involve us in a gigantic debate of semantics, which would result in no more clarification of the facts than was reported in our news account of the hearing.

I never cease to be amazed at the erroneous impression some readers conjure up about the motives of editors in reporting factual news, especially when there is some controversy involved in a particular story.

I get the impression that some readers think newspaper editors are propagandists, single-minded individuals, who gather the facts in a story, weed them out, size 'em up, and then print the news to suit friends, advertisers and the aims of the reporter involved.

Well, it just doesn't happen that way in this newspaper.

We may be guilty of putting friction in the diction or stammer in the grammar sometimes, but we try ever so hard to "tell it like it is."

And we try harder, not because we're second, but because we want to stay first in reporting all the news that's fit to print.

And that's that!

Burglars Steal Antique Suite From Old Home

An antique bedroom suite, believed to be well over 100 years old, has been stolen from the home of Bert C. Moss of the Polk community, a relative of the family.

The theft has been reported to county authorities who are investigating. Relatives said Mr. Moss, who is 9' and blind, is presently a patient in the Obion County Nursing Home.

A door lock was broken for the burglars to enter the old house, the relative said, and a black cherry bedstead and chest of drawers was taken from an upstairs bedroom, along with an antique dresser.

"The furniture has been in the family so very long," the relative told The Messenger today. "We hope whoever took it will reconsider and see that it is returned."

Country Music Pair Face Marijuana Charge

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. — Two members of the Wayton Jennings country music group face preliminary hearing here July 11 on charges of illegally possessing marijuana.

James S. Gray, 32, of Elirino, Okla., and Richard Albright, 30, of Phoenix, Ariz., were arrested by city police here Monday night after U.S. Customs agents said they found eight ounces of marijuana in the motor vehicle in which the pair was riding.

Three other members of the group, riding in separate cars, were released after being questioned by police.

Gray and Albright pleaded innocent at arraignment in city court. They later were released from the Niagara County Jail in Lockport after a lawyer posted $500 bail for each.

Deputy Police Chief Albert J. Lynch said the group was picked up at the Rainbow Bridge, connecting this city with Niagara Falls, Ont.

The group was headed to Nashville, Tenn., for a recording session after finishing a personal appearance engagement in Toronto, Ont.

James Supermarket Safe Is Strongarmed

Burglars struck at one of Union City's largest retail establishments Thursday night or early Friday, strongarmed a safe and made off with both money and merchandise.

The target of the thieves was the E. W. James and Son Supermarket on East Main Street.

Billy Joe James, general manager of the firm which operates three stores in Obion and Fulton counties, said the intruders made off with an estimated $2,500 to $3,000 in coins and currency, an estimated 50 carton of cigarettes, some $1,600 worth of trading stamps and possibly other merchandise.

"Right now, it's difficult to tell if anything else was taken," Mr. James said.

Union City police officers, however, reported later today they found a quantity of Quality Stamps scattered along the Union City-Fulton highway.

The stamps were scattered like confetti along the highway and investigators believe the thieves may have crossed into Kentucky after the burglary.

South Fulton, Fulton and other Kentucky authorities have been alerted, officers said.

Union City police said the break is believed to have occurred sometime after rain began falling before midnight Thursday. The burglary was discovered shortly after 6 a.m. today by Dennis Lanning of Charlotte, N.C., and Mrs. Martha McBride, a store employee. Mr. Lanning is an instructor in the store's recently-opened bakery department.

Union City police were called to the scene immediately and, led by Police Chief Willis Reese and Assistant Chief Cleatis Haley, began their investigation. Other officers at the scene included Sgt. Charles Pendergrass and Patrolmen Dale Cosby and Henry Moses.

Lawyers Elect U. C. Attorney

Randall P. Burcham, prominent Union City attorney, was elected to the board of governors at Friday's closing session of the Tennessee Bar Association meeting in Gatlinburg.

The board of governors helps make policies of the bar association, along with the officers. Mr. Burcham is a past president of the Obion County Bar Association.

Elected to serve with Mr. Burcham were F. Graham Bartlett of Knoxville and J. G. Lackey of Nashville.

Former state adjutant general Brig. Gen. Joe W. Henry was named president-elect of the group. He will take office at the convention next June. James D. Senter Jr. of Humboldt was installed as president.

Other officers elected were Frank Bratton of Athens, vice-president for East Tennessee; John W. Nolan III of Nashville, vice-president for Middle Tennessee; and John G. Owens of Memphis, vice-president for West Tennessee.

Air Force Gen. Bruce Holloway, a Knoxville native and commander of the Strategic Air Command, discussed the country's military strength at Friday's session and said the nation's military forces are effective but must be strengthened.

"We must extend our technical superiority," Holloway declared. "The manned bomber fleet will be modernized and we are modernizing the Minuteman

In Memoriam

John L. Lewis

UMW President Emeritus Died

John L. Lewis, former President of the United Mine Workers of America, died Wednesday evening at the age of 89, but not without leaving his mark on the American labor movement, as well as the nation.

It was Lewis in the 1930's who almost singlehandedly gave the coal miner his place in the sun by taking on and defeating the giant coal companies.

In 1935, Lewis shattered the complacent craft-union American Federation of Labor by setting up the Committee for Industrial Organization to organize workers into single unions for each big industry.

—He went on to lead convulsive sitdown strikes, to humble the auto industry and big steel, to endorse and then to break bitterly with President Franklin D. Roosevelt, to defy the government in coal-mine disputes in World War II, to battle with President Harry S. Truman in two coal strikes in which he was twice held in contempt of federal court and fined, to ease the way for mechanization of bituminous coal mining and to pioneer in the establishment of a pension and welfare fund for his miners.

Never at a loss for words and a master of the English language, Lewis was noted for his stinging tongue as is shown in a quote characterizing Walter Reuther, President of the United Automobile Workers, as "an earnest Marxist chronically inebriated, I think, by the exuberance of his own verbosity."

John L. Lewis will forever be remembered for his contribution to the workers of this nation. No matter what the historians make of Lewis, he was the man of his time!

Fund Donations Nearing $16,000

The foundation hopes to erect a statue of the late Congressman Everett in Union City and establish scholarships in his name to both the University of Tennessee at Martin and Murray State University.

Recent donors include: Mrs. R.E. Sanford, South Fulton; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bondurant, South Fulton; Dan Dawson, Dresden; Mrs. Rob Fowlkes, South Fulton; L.W. Reynolds, South Fulton; Mrs. Elizabeth Coplen, South Fulton; Mrs. J.B. Hufnagel and Essie Woodfin, Covington; Anonymous; Judge H.H. Seventy-Eight Percent of Shoppers In Supermarkets Choose Dairy Foods

More than half are between 30 and 49 years old, shop for three people or less, and have yearly incomes of more than $5,000. They're typical members of a group almost everyone fits into — food shoppers.

The average shopper spends 26.1 minutes in a supermarket with 6,500 items on display. Most (62.6%) don't carry shopping lists, but make 68.9% of their buying decisions in the store. They average two-three supermarket visits weekly, spending an average $8.21 per trip for about 13 items.

About three in ten female family shoppers are employed, making ease of shopping, time and convenience important to them. Today's shoppers spread their business around — 61% normally buy at least one product in another store. Of every 100 shoppers who enter the supermarket, 93 pass the dairy case and 78 of them buy at least one dairy product (as compared to 94 passing, 80 buying fresh meats; 90 passing, 56 buying produce). Dairy sales account for 8-11% of store sales.

The average number of in-store decisions made in the dairy department is 67.3%. Broken down by product, for example, such purchasing decisions as these are made while in the store: 78.5% cheese; 54.8% fresh milk; 74.5% other dairy products.

Biggest food spenders are in the 25-40 age range; have a five or six person family; a $10,000-$15,000 income; and shop for food as a group—man, woman, children. To get to the store, 94% use a car, 5% walk, 7/10 of 1% use the bus, and 2/10 of 1% other modes of transportation, such as taxi. Thirty-two percent of shoppers travel more than two miles to their favorite store in spite of the fact that 51% report other supermarkets are closer.

Weekend customers spend nearly three times the total weekly average purchase. Thursday, Friday and Saturday business accounts for 77% of the week's sales, with Friday the biggest day, Saturday next and Thursday third best.

As anyone could guess, women food shoppers outnumber men four to one. The ladies also take longer to shop and usually spend $3.00 more!

THE COUNTRY DOCTOR

By James K. Welch, M.D.

Not long ago a Western farmer went out in his barnyard and saw a red fox running and falling, biting fence posts and trees, with saliva dripping from his jaws. The fox finally bit one of the dogs on the face. The farmer killed the fox. The next morning the wounded dog bit the farmer on the thumb and later on the ankle. Shortly thereafter the dog began to salivate and stumble and bit another dog. The second dog became ill a few days later. The farmer killed both dogs and destroyed their bodies along with that of the fox. He finally became worried and went to a doctor who started anti-rabies vaccine, which is also called the Pasteur treatment. After the third shot the farmer developed diarrhea, severe headache and his neck became stiff. The injections went on for five more days. The patient became deaf and partially blind and became covered with big sores all over his body. He developed a form of meningitis and nearly died. When he finally began to slowly recover the worried doctor gave him another rabies shot and he went back into the same illness.

The farmer had become ill from the rabies shots given in the Pasteur treatment. He was allergic to the vaccine. Why did the doctors persist in trying to give it to him in the face of such terrible reactions? Because that fox and those dogs certainly had rabies or hydrophobia. The disease is always fatal in man. No human being has ever known to recover from rabies or hydrophobia. There is no treatment of any kind available. It can only be prevented if caught in time by the Pasteur treatment which requires a course of fourteen daily shots and later booster doses. There is also an antiserum to be used in severe exposure. The newer Pasteur vaccine is made from duck eggs and does not cause as many reactions as the old Pasteur vaccine. (But note that the farmer had the new vaccine.)

Rabies virus exists in warm-blooded animals: such as dogs, cats, wolves, foxes, skunks and bats to name some of the worst offenders. The virus is usually transmitted by the bite of an infected animal. It goes into the body and attacks the brain. Infection can be transmitted without a bite by the saliva of the animal getting on the broken skin or into the lungs. Breathing the air in a bat cave can cause infections it's been found recently. The incubation period varies from a few days to a year -- some say two years.

There are common forms of the disease in the dog. In the "furious" type he becomes extremely agitated, runs wild and attacks everything. In the "dumb" type his mouth hangs open, his tongue sticks out and he drools. The bark may sound different and the throat muscles go into spasm at the sight of water.

This observation led to the name "hydrophobia," Greek derivatives meaning "fear of water." Sympathetic people have been known to think the dog had a bone in his throat and infected themselves trying to get it out. Here we have an untreatable, 100% fatal disease in which the victim dies in agony. The only hope is to prevent it but this treatment can cause severe allergic reactions, paralysis and even death. With such bad odds you'd think people would be meticulously careful with wild animals, dogs and cats and bites. They'd have their animals given the shots and they'd insist that dogs be properly restricted and strays eliminated and the same for cats. Not so. Many pets are unprotected and in some of our towns the strays and wild dogs have about taken over. Some twisted characters value a dog or cat more than they do a child and that's the truth, sad as it is.

When someone is bitten by any mammal every effort should be made to catch the animal, pen him up and keep him alive. If he stays healthy for ten days he wasn't rabid at the time of the bite. Even if an animal has had the shots he can still get rabies. Laboratory examinations on the head can help but they sometimes leave wide areas of doubt and the dangerous vaccine must be given anyway. The best initial treatment is to wash and flush the wounds with soap and detergent for ten or fifteen minutes.
